

In the Media: People Magazine - December 10th, 2007

PEOPLE
THE YEAR IN BABIES
DENNIS QUAID
BABY TWINS IN DANGER
 After a shocking hospital error, the star and his wife Kimberly keep a tense vigil as their 3-week-old newborns struggle to recover.
VALERIE BERTINELLI LOST 40 LBS!
NEW ROMANCE Jessica & the Quarterback
EXCLUSIVE Miley's 15th Birthday Party!

Great Baby Gifts
 Here's what the stars are unwrapping

TUNI & G
 Don't Ya Wish Your Mommy Was Hot Like Mine? set, $60: TuniandG.com. Celeb fans: Nicole Richie, Nancy O'Dell.

BLABLA
 Stuffed animals, $35-$45: childrenswonderland.com. Celeb fans: Adam Sandler, Tori Spelling.

BELLE BABY
 Carrier, $90; shop.intuition.com. Celeb fan: Julia Roberts.

Brooke Shields goes for chic over curtesy hosting a baby shower for pal Kim Raver

Shower Chic

As a second-time mom, Kim Raver knew what she wanted—and what she didn't—from her baby shower. "I did that oohing and aahing the first time around," says Raver, 40, whose second son, Leo, joined brother Luke, 5, and her husband, filmmaker Manu Boyer, on Oct. 9. "I wanted one that was really different." So, like many Hollywood moms, Raver and longtime friend Brooke Shields, who hosted the Sept. 27 fete, decided against a "typical Sunday shower" in favor of a sophisticated cocktail party. "People have more fun at evening showers," says celebrity party planner Colin Cowie, who decorated Shields's SoHo loft with green and purple instead of traditional pink and blue. "You can put on heels, get dressed up and go enjoy cocktails." "The party had to be earthy and sexy," adds Shields. "There's very little that's frilly about Kim!"

Guests sipped cucumber-infused "Green Goddesses" while Raver checked out gifts from Svan of Sweden.